Helping Hands Mission Camp loves to share our campers' experiences with the world whether through the press, radio, television, Facebook or our website as a means of informing the public of our programs, activities, and accomplishments.

Without parent or guardian permission, Helping Hands will not release any personally identifiable information that includes the name of you, your child, or the date and place of a particular event. Parental permission is required to interview, photograph or film campers under age eighteen (18).

Crowd shots that are not meant to individually identify students and photographs for the camp will be exempt from the parental permission requirement.

Please check one of the choices below and sign the form at the bottom:

- Permission IS granted for a photo/image of my child and other personal identifiers such as name, age, and camp team to be included on the Helping Hands website, on video, televised or radio broadcasts, or in print media generated by Helping Hands Mission Camp.
- Permission is NOT granted for a photo or image of me or my child to be published on the Helping Hands website, televised broadcasts, or in print media generated by Helping Hands Mission Camp.
